ACM Open Author eRights Experience

Welcome to ACM Open!

This document will explain the experience when an author from your institution chooses to publish in an ACM conference or journal. It is extremely important that your authors are listed as the corresponding author and use their institutional email address when submitting their work, so they are provided with the correct ACM Open eRights forms.

An email similar to the one below is sent to the corresponding author of a manuscript in each of these instances:

- Submission to an ACM journal
- Acceptance to an ACM journal
- Acceptance to an ACM conference or ICPS conference

Subject: Paper Accepted For Publication in ICPS 2024
Date: Thursday, January 09, 2025 11:36:19 AM

Congratulations on having your paper accepted into the proceedings of 2024 ICPS Conference Your paper will be published open access, in line with ACM's new publishing model for the International Conference Proceedings Series (ICPS). Because you are affiliated with an institution in a country that qualifies for a geographic waiver, you are not required to pay the ACM article processing charge (APC).

Please follow steps 1-3 below very carefully

1. Note the critical deadlines for your paper
- Completion of Publication Release Form: this step is essential for the timely publication of the conference proceedings, so please complete the form as soon as possible (this is part of the Publication Setup Process; see step 3 below)
- Submission of supplemental materials such as code, d... ...e. Date is set by Conference

We encourage all authors to become members of AC... More ... ...tion on membership options is available here. Additionally, we ask that you encourage your ...stitu... ...o participate in the ACM Open program by sending this link to your department head or librarian.

Title: Test ...per for ACM Open

Paper Type: full paper (published as research-article)

Authors: Author 1, Author 1, (author1@test.acm.org) [Corresponding author]-
Will list if ACM Open Participant, or ACM Member, or If Eligible for Geographic Assistance
ACM, New York, New York, United States

Author 2, Author 2, (author2@test.acm.org)- Will list if ACM Open Participant, or ACM Member, or If Eligible for Geographic Assistance
ACM, New York, New York, United States

Author 3, Author 3, (author3@test.acm.org)- Will list if ACM Open Participant, or ACM Member, or If Eligible for Geographic Assistance
ACM, New York, New York, United States

3. Complete the Publication Setup Process

When you're ready to proceed, please click this link to begin: LIVE LINK TO ACM RIGHTS FORM

Sincerely,
ACM Publications

For assistance with rights issues and APC payments, please contact rightsreview@acm.org
If you have general questions about the ICPS program, please contact icps-info@acm.org

When the corresponding author, (the author who received the email with the link to the eRights form), clicks on the link to the eRights form they are brought to a Data Validation screen. If the paper is part of the ACM Open Program, the ACM Open Data Validation page will have a line at the top saying "This paper is part of the ACM Open Program". (The eRights system recognizes the corresponding author is from a participating institution based on the email domain provided to us by the institution's administrator). If the corresponding author changes their email address, from their institutional domain to a non-institutional domain*, their paper will no longer be part of the ACM Open Program.

The corresponding author should confirm all information on the Data Validation page to make sure the title and all the author information is correct. Once the corresponding author has reviewed the information and determines it is correct, they should click the Verification Check Box and then click on the Save and Proceed to eRights Form button:

Data Validation

Welcome to ACM's eRights process! ACM requires that the information displayed on its eRights forms precisely match what is displayed on the final version of this paper. If any of the data below does not meet this requirement, it is your responsibility as the corresponding author to adjust it as needed. The information will then be saved and displayed correctly when you proceed to sign your eRights form.

Government

Do you or any of your co-authors work for a government agency that claims copyright to this work? (Does not apply to State government)

○ Yes, as an employee
○ Yes, as a contractor
● No

Creative Commons License

Selecting a Creative Commons license option means your choice of license will be displayed on the published version of your paper in the ACM Digital Library.

CC-BY is the default CC license and is required by RCUK and Coalition S Funders in Europe to qualify for their funding.

● CC-BY 4.0 Creative Commons License ⓘ

○ CC-BY-NC-ND Creative Commons Non-Commercial Non-Derivative License ⓘ

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution International 4.0 License (https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/).

☐ I understand all of the rights and restrictions outlined above.

With the paper attributed a CC-BY license, individuals will be free to:

Share - Copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format for any purpose, even commercially.

Adapt - Remix, transform, and build upon the material for any purpose, even commercially.

The licensor cannot revoke these freedoms as long as the following license terms are followed:

Attribution - Individuals must give appropriate credit, provide a link to the license, and indicate if changes were made. Individuals may do so in any reasonable manner, but not in any way that suggests the licensor endorses individuals or how the licensor's work was used.

No additional restrictions - Individuals may not apply legal terms or technological measures that legally restrict others from doing anything the license permits.

Livestreaming and Post-Conference Distribution

A "livestream" is a synchronous distribution of the presentation to the public, separate from the presentation distributed to conference registrants. Not all conference presentations are livestreamed; you will be notified in advance of the possibility of your presentation being livestreamed.

Here you will grant or deny ACM rights to make this presentation more widely seen by way of livestreaming and/or distribution of the presentation subsequent to the event. Those permissions granted and/or denied here apply to all presentations of this material at the conference, including (but not limited to) the primary presentation and any program-specific "fast forward" presentations.

Do you grant permission to ACM to livestream your presentation during the conference?

○ Yes
○ No

Do you grant ACM permission to distribute a recording of your presentation as described above?

○ Yes
○ No

Auxiliary and/or Supplemental Materials

ACM considers Auxiliary Materials to be any additional files, including software and executables that are not submitted for review as an integral part of the Work but are supplied by the Author as useful and interesting resources for the reader.

Supplemental Materials are any additional files which form an integral part of the work and are submitted for review along with the textual manuscript.

Will your work be published with any auxiliary materials and/or supplemental materials?

○ Yes
○ No

Is software knowingly designed to illustrate technique(s) intended to defeat a system's security included among these materials?

○ Yes
○ No

Third-Party Materials

Third-Party Materials are considered to be non-textual in nature - e.g., figures, tables, graphs, photographs, simulations, music or audio/video clips. (Small text quotations borrowed from a third-party are placed in quotes and cited.) It is extremely important that you identify the copyright holder and secure permission to use each and every piece of third-party content in your paper or presentation that you, yourself, did not create.

If any Third-Party Materials were used for the Work, ACM requires that you secure and document all necessary permissions and/or licenses below. Third-party copyright must be clearly stated in the caption(s) of images or in the text narrative near the object(s) in the Work and in any presentation of it, in any Supplemental Materials, in any Digital Artifacts and in any Auxiliary Materials as applicable. Please do not assume that, since you found it on the Internet, it is freely available to be used.

If you believe any Third-Party Materials used in the Work fall within the scope of fair use, please confirm this by referencing ACM's fair use guidelines here: http:// www.acm.org/publications/guidance-for-authors-on-fair-use (http://www.acm.org/publications/guidance-for-authors-on-fair-use)

Does your paper and/or presentation make use of any Third-Party Materials?

○ Yes
○ No

Legal Agreement

I - Grant Permission

(a) Owner or authorized agent of the copyright owner(s) grant permission for ACM to do the following:

1. Include the above-named work (The Work) in any and all forms, in the above named publication

2. Distribute or sell this submission as part of the above-named publication in print and electronic form in any media format now or hereafter known. (Not all forms of media will be utilized.)

3. Treat The Work in Auxiliary and Supplemental Material as a First-Class Digital Object in the ACM Digital Library.

If The Work is withdrawn before it is published in the ACM Digital Library, any rights granted to ACM will revert back to the Owner

II - ACM Citation and Digital Object Identifier

(a) In connection with any use by the Owner of the Definitive Version, Owner shall include the ACM citation and ACM Digital Object Identifier (DOI).

(b) In connection with any use by the Owner of the Submitted Version (if accepted) or the Accepted Version or a Minor Revision, Owner shall use best efforts to display the ACM citation, along with a statement substantially similar to the following:

"© [Owner] [Year]. This is the author's version of The Work. It is posted here for your personal use. Not for redistribution. The definitive version was published in {Source Publication}, https://doi.org/10.1145/{number}."

III - Representations, Warranties, and Covenants

(a) Owner is the sole owner or authorized agent of Owner(s) of The Work.

(b) Owner is authorized to enter into this Agreement and grant the rights included in this license to ACM.

(c) The Work is original and does not infringe the rights of any third-party; all permissions for use of Third-Party Materials consistent in scope and duration with the rights granted to ACM have been obtained, copies of such permissions have been provided to ACM, and The Work as submitted to ACM clearly and accurately indicates the credit to the proprietors of any such Third-Party Materials (including any applicable copyright notice), or will be revised to indicate such credit.

(d) The Work has not been published except for informal postings on non-peer reviewed servers, and Owner covenants to use best efforts to place ACM DOI pointers on any such prior postings.

(e) All instances of Auxiliary and/or supplemental Materials included in the paper contain no malicious code, virus, trojan horse, or other software routines or hardware components designed to permit unauthorized access or to disable, erase or otherwise harm any computer systems or software. Furthermore, user agrees to allow ACM to represent any Auxiliary and/or Supplemental Material included in the paper as a First-Class Digital Object.

(g) Any software included in The Work's auxiliary materials knowingly designed to illustrate technique(s) intended to defeat a system's security has been explicitly documented to state as much.

(f) The Artistic Images, if any, are clearly and accurately noted as such (including any applicable copyright notice) in the Submitted Version.

IV - Enforcement

At ACM's expense, ACM shall have the right to defend and enforce the rights granted to ACM hereunder, including in connection with any instances of plagiarism brought to the attention of ACM. The Owner shall notify ACM in writing as promptly as practicable upon becoming aware that any third-party is infringing upon the rights granted to ACM, and shall reasonably cooperate with ACM in its defense or enforcement.

V - Governing Law

This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the state of New York applicable to contracts entered into and to be fully performed therein.

☐ I agree to all terms as stated above

Permissions Released

Below you'll find a summary of all permissions released on the previous page. Please read over each point to ensure your answers are accurately reflected.

1. You will be publishing your work under a CC-BY license.
2. None of the authors of this work are employed by a national government that claims copyright to this work.
3. ACM is not granted permission to livestream your presentation during the event.
4. ACM is not granted permission to distribute a recording of your presentation subsequent to the event.
5. Your work is not published with any auxiliary materials and/or supplementary materials.
6. Your paper and/or presentation does not make use of any third party materials.
7. You agree to all of the terms laid out within the Legal Agreement section at the bottom of the previous page.

Funding Information

No funding information was provided. If you wish to provide funding information, please return to the data validation page (https://services.acm.org/dataValidation/validateData.cfm?v=1412075046561D5351080B071D531F004E500C111F574E5D0E).

Demographic Survey

Why we need this information:
This survey is designed to help ACM measure progress in relation to diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI) in all ACM activities, and also to help us understand how we can best meet the individual needs of our people (i.e. to improve ACM's services, policies and processes). ACM is deeply committed to fostering a scientific community that supports and benefits from the talents of community members from a wide range of backgrounds.

Data that you submit may be used for the purposes of ACM's diversity-related reporting. The results of such reports may be shared internally or externally in an anonymous and aggregated form for at least 10 individuals.

You can update this data at any time and you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time.

ACM provides corresponding authors every opportunity throughout the Author Rights Workflow to change their email domain in order to get properly affiliated with a participating ACM Open institution. The screenshot below is included in the Workflow where one of the authors is from an institution that is part of ACM Open, but they are not listed as the corresponding author. The message lets the current corresponding author know if they make a change of the corresponding author to their co-author who is part of the ACM Open Program, they will not have to pay an APC.

Confirm ACM Open Eligibility

An institutional email from an ACM Open participating institution is required to qualify this paper under an ACM Open agreement.

Provide Institutional Email
If you are affiliated with an ACM Open institution, please enter your institutional email so we can confirm eligibility.
